

This is a detailed topographic map of the Ligurian region in Italy, specifically the area around La Spezia and Carrara. The map shows the coastline, major cities, and a network of roads. A red line highlights a specific route or boundary. The map includes elevation contours and a scale bar at the bottom right.

Key Features:

- Coastline: The Ligurian Sea is visible on the left, with the coastline extending from La Spezia in the north to Carrara in the south.
- Major Cities: La Spezia (3) is a prominent city on the coast. Carrara is located further inland. Other smaller towns like Lerici, Portovenere, and Portofino are also visible.
- Topography: The map shows a mountainous region with numerous elevation contours. The highest peaks are in the central and eastern parts of the map.
- Road Network: A network of roads is shown, with a red line highlighting a specific route. The red line starts near La Spezia and extends towards Carrara, passing through several smaller towns.
- Scale: A scale bar at the bottom right indicates distances in kilometers (0, 5, 10, 15 km).

The graph displays the elevation profile of the route from Berlin to Hamburg. The y-axis represents Elevation in meters [m], ranging from 200 to 1200. The x-axis represents Distance in kilometers [km], ranging from 0 to 200. The red line shows the elevation starting at 243 m at 0 km and ending at 220.7 m at 220.7 km. The profile features several peaks, with the highest reaching approximately 1250 m around 190 km.
